The different, independent dimensions of gender/sex at a glance

The «Geschlechter-Radar» (gender/sex radar) should help us to better orient ourselves in the fog of gender diversity. Because if we are able to keep these dimensions apart, we can also better distinguish people from the LGBTQIA+ spectrum and thus better understand the different concerns.

Each dimension of the radar has "normative expressions" (conforms to social norms) and "expansive expressions" (expands social norms):

Body: endosex (also dyadic) and intersex bodies (sex characteristics)

Gender identity: cisgender und transgender people

Gender expressions: gender-conforming and gender-nonconforming appearances

Attraction: hetero and queer attractions

Gender role: traditional und feminist roles of gender
